Term 1 - Summer 2008 ● Registration Closed

■ Environmental -- ABC's-Analyzing Energy & the Environment (ENV488.A)

ENV488A - Module A: Engineering Fundamentals for Analyzing Energy and the Environment

The engineering realities of electric power grids and natural gas pipelines greatly constrain the choices that lawyers and policy analysts might otherwise make. This module will cover the engineering fundamentals inherent in the current and expected energy infrastructure.

ENV 488B - Module B: Legal Fundamentals for Analyzing Energy and the Environment

Decades of controversy and development have created a detailed legal and regulatory structure that channels and often defines the choices made by energy providers and users. This module will cover the key jurisdictional, procedural, and substantive elements of the federal and state laws most directly affecting energy and the environment.

ENV 488C - Module C: Business Fundamentals for Analyzing Energy and the Environment

America's energy system is often called the most capital-intensive sector in our society. Whether you care about environmental consequences, reliability, or costs, your ability to understand and influence the behavior of energy companies will be helped by this module's overview of the key financial, economic, and accounting factors that drive those companies' goals and decisions.

MSEL students must take at least 2 units if using the class to fulfill a distributional requirement; Policy, Regulatory, Resource Management and Planning.
